Wealth of the Groom. BALTIMORE, Murch 14.-A day of as beautiful weather and delightful sun-shine as ever shone on happy nuptials graced the wedning of the peerless Louise H. Morris and the wide-famed Frederick Gebhard, at the house of the bride's parents, 207 west Franklin street, at 12 o'clock

ciety might be termed "strictly private."
Only a select few were admitted. Outside, a throng of persons, whose social position, one would think, would have gained them admittance, stood for hours waiting to obtain a glimpse of the handsome bride and groom.

As the belis tolled the noon hour Miss Morris and Mr. Gebhard entered the parlor from a side-door, Rev. M. B. Babcock, of Brown Memorial church, stood in the front window, and in a few simple words pronounced them man and wife. The bride was attired in a magnificent wedding gown of white satin and lace, and wore a huge bunch of violets on her bosom. John B. Morris, the bride's father, gave her away. There were no bridesmaids.

COLLECTION OF TAXES. A Measure to Reach Corporations in the Hands of Federal Receivers. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 14.-Mr. De Arond (Democrat), of Missouri, from the Judiciary Committee, reported to the House to-day, with the recommendation that it pass, a bill to prevent interference in the collection of State, county, and municipal taxes assessed against corporameasure, the report says, is designed to put corporations in the hands of receivers appointed by judges and courts of the United States in the same condition with respect to the collection of these taxes as if no receiver existed. It often happens that corporations, by or-der of the United States Courts, pass into hands of receivers, and remain there r a number of years, during which time accesses against them and their operty are paid, or not paid, according property are paid, or not paid, according to the judgment and discretion, and sometimes the caprice, of the Federal Court. By this practice corporations in the hands of receivers are enabled to defer the payment of taxes almost indefinitely, to the great inconvenience and prejudice of the States. The committee is of the opinion that corporations in the hamis of receivers should not enjoy any greater immunity with respect to the pay-ment of taxes than that which is pos-sessed by corporations carrying on their business outside of court and without re-

UNITED STATES SENATE. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 12, 1894. Arthur H. Taylor, Esq.:

Arthur H. Taylor, Esq.:

My Dear Sir,—Permit me to express my acknowledgments and thanks to you and your associates for the kind words spoken of me in the Post, and for the just sense which you cordially manifest as to my course in the Senate.

Mistaken I may have been (no one can afford to be dogmatic about finance), but so far as motives are concerned I know not what motive other than a conviction of public duty could actuate a Democratic senator in opposing measures brought forward by an administration of his own party with which his interests are identified. And whatever any man may think, hed. And whatever any man may think, I have certainly had no motive but to act straightforwardly on the lines of the Democratic platform and on the best interests of my constituents.

One year ago, in February, 1893, the unconditional receal of the Sherman bill

One year ago, in February, 1833, the unconditional repeal of the Sherman bill was defeated by the well-nigh united Democracy of the Senate. Its unconditional repeal was a Republican proposition, headed by Senator Sherman, and it was confronted by the Democratic party and by them defeated. When it was again proposed last summer, in extra session, I felt that in repealing it we should carry out the Democratic platform "to coin both metals (gold and silver) without discrimination." This was our party promise; crimination. This was our party promise to this we were pledged, and this for my part I desired to fulfil. If we did not then do it I felt assured that difficulties would increase; that the demand for silver cre-ated by coinage would be diminished by its cessation, the bullion be farther de-preciated, and the ability of legislation to restore himetallism greatly contained. restore bimetallism greatly curtailed.

PROPHECIES FULFILLED.

The prophecies I then made have been already fulfilled. Silver has fallen in value; and every difficulty to restoration has been multiplied. The spectacle is presented of the greatest silver-producing nation of the world destroying the foun-tain of its own inestimable riches, and pandering to Great Britain which is build-ing up its gold mines, having none of

The prosperity predicted to ensue upon the repealing measure has falled to ap-pear. Senator Sherman predicted good times in ten days. But the months roll on and the wolf is still at the door. The diminished supply of metal money has caused continuous shrinkage in govern-ment revenues, leading to an increase of the national debt. Local revenues are breadless, and in the country wheat is Investors have found securities shrinking in value, and debtors have been thrown into hopeless insolvency. The movement from bimetallism to monometallism has been like an arctic wave on all the industries of farm and workshop; and the world is to-day pinched and haif starved for money in the midst of bountiful crops, and with myraids of brawny arms and fevered brains begging work and finding none.

ANARCHISTS IN NEW ORLEANS.

They Demand the Discharge of Girls from the Tolsaco Factories.

NEW ORLEANS, March 14.—Anarchists have put in their appearance in this city, and the police are on the trail. Three of the largest tobacco manufacturers in the city, W. R. Irby, Rose, and Hernstein, have received several anonymous the cold, monometallic wave that has put over large largely caused by the cold, monometallic wave that has proposition, largely caused by the cold, monometallic wave that has proposition and the current of the world are suffering financial chills, largely caused by the cold, monometallic wave that has TARIFF NOT THE CAUSE. the cold, monometallic wave that has swept over Europe and the United States. It is slowly dawning on the comprehension of mankind that in dismissing from its service as money of redemption the metal which was the helpmeet of gold from a period antedating the Christian era to the nineteenth century, it has shrivelied the values of land and its products, paralyzed industrial enterprises, congested money in a few centres, reduced labor to a pittance, and thrown away the schemes of progress.

DAWNING CONSCIOUSNESS

their faces favorably to bimetallism is a sign of dawning consciousness. Investors, as Mr. Lodge pointed out a few days ago in the Senate, are realizing that instead of profiting by the contraction movement they will in many cases so shrink values as to get nothing; and the Democratic party should beware lest if it acquiesce in the contraction system its enemy, the Republicans, come forward and lead in the restoration of bimetallism—the obvious necessity of the world.

Time will surely vindicate those who stand unflinchingly by the money of the Constitution; the money most needed and most used by the masses; the money that flourished from the beginning of civilizamost used by the masses; the money that flourished from the beginning of civilization down to the time when after Waterloo England stretched forth her hand for commercial supremacy; and after Appomattox monopolistic powers were organized under the shadow of the sword.

I have written more than I intended when I began. The speedy passage of the tariff bill, much to be desired, will set the wheels of business in motion, give employed. wheels of business in motion, give em-ployment to many now idle, and quicker the pulses of trade. But we will never have the prosperity to which we are en-titled, nor revive the independence and well-being of the masses who till our ried on three quarters of a mile out of the Washington, between the 1st of March and the 15th of December, for periods not exceeding eighteen days each.

AUGUSTA. March 14.—Judge Simonton, of the United States Court, has filed a decision in the famous South Carolina railroad tax case. The State had levied taxes which the roads claimed wereaex-cessive, and they refused to pay the increase. The sciaure of the railroad property by the State at the time created a great sensation. Receiver Chamberlain, of the South Carolina railroad, carried the matter to the United States courts. Judge Simonton has decided that the assessment was not excessive, and has ordered that the railroad pay up the unpaid balance of their taxes.

LYNCHBURG, VA., March 14.-(Special.)-Hugh Preston, Mayor of Radford, Va., and four policemen of that town, James Fisher, Frank Wilson, G. W. Belo, and James Worth, were arraigned in the United States Court here to-day charged with interfering with a United States Government officer in the discharge of his duty. The disturbance alleged as the cause of the prosecution occurred at Radford in May, 1883. Officer Belo had been arrested by Deputy United States Marshal Lester, carried before Commis sloner Painter, and sent on to the United States Court for an alleged interference with Lester while in the discharge of his official duty. The Commissioner exacted a $300 bond of Belo for his appearance, which the policeman refused to give, whereupon the Commissioner ordered the Marshal to take him in custody, H. Stratton, a second cousin, of Gordonsville, Va., stating that he has a sword worn by Colonel Richard J. Harlan, who commanded Company D. Nineteenth Virginia Regiment, during the memorable battle of Gettysburg, which sword was sent by one of Colonel Harlan's men to Mr. Stratton, thinking him the nearest of kin, but which he (Mr. Stratton) wishes to give to the oldest son of the man who bravely wore it. Colonel Harlan was seriously wounded in this fight by a bullet piereing his side. ing his side.

He never fully recovered from the effects of this wound, and died a few years after the war.

Mr. Harlan, it is needless to say, would be very much gratified to get this sword worn by his father, as well as to know when his father was promoted above the rank of captain. He is of the opinion that in the fight at Gettysburg his father was acting as colonel for the time being when ne was wounded.

Mr. Harlan is a relative of Colonel W. Tanner, of Richmond, as well as Mr. H. Stratton, of Gordonsville, for both whose families he is named.

BLAZE NEAR WILLIAMSBURG.

WILLIAMSBURG, VA., March 14 .-(Special.)-About 2 o'clock this morning the large grist mill, one mile west of town, the property of Mr. D. S. Jones, of Newport News, was entirely destroyed by fire. The building was a frame structure and almost new, as Mr. Jones about a year ago had expended about $1,600 in reyear ago had expended about $1,590 in re-pairs and putting in new and improved machinery. The property was in charge of Mr. Thomas Wilson, who ran the mill, and states that fully 500 bushels of corn and meal were destroyed, much of it be-longing to parties who stored it there, calling for it as they had use for it. The burning was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary, as no fire had been in the mill since the snow last Sunday week. the mill since the snow last Sunday week. The loss on the building and machinery is about $2,500, and more than likely there will seriously inconvenience our people. Mr. Jones was notified this morning of the burning, and is expected up from Newport News on the evening train, THE EMPORIA VIRGINIAN.
